Where To Hit the Horse
Deadly Fist Fights
Let Haiti Read Froude
Fighting Chinese Women

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

HOBBS, Calif., Feb. 12—Uncle Sam must raise hundreds of millions more in taxes, unless he economizes, and that he will not do, to any extent. Some said "tax the rich" by taxed big incomes more heavily. But that would discourage enterprises that give work to the rich. A general manufacturers tax of one per cent, was suggested and expected to yield six hundred million dollars. The drop in manufacturing would now cut that sum to four hundred millions, and the tax would discourage employment. Income tax, customs receipts, are off. But thirteen hundred million extra dollars must be found somewhere. Where to hit a tired horse to make him go faster is the problem. Some say a general sales tax, hitting the horse gentle, everywhere at once, would be the best plan.

In one column you read that Kid Elton, prize fighter, is dead at Palm Beach, of prize ring injuries. In another column you observe the death of a 19-year-old high school boy, killed in a public school boxing match in Los Angeles. A blow on the nose caused a hemorrhage of the brain and death, and the school authorities say "just an accident." Was it necessary, or different from an assault by a bandit? Did it do any good? Has fighting with fists any value, now when every thug carries his "gun."

Has such fighting any value in war? Does it not promote brutality, uselessly? Is it not a disgrace that public schools, and the army and navy should encourage such barbarism?

HAITI PROTESTS because her finances are controlled by the United States, and managed by American banks. Haiti should rejoice, because at least, she has a financial system and some credit, which she would not have otherwise. Dissatisfied Haitians, who think they could manage their finances better, should read Froude's book on the West Indies. It tells of a population, similar to that of Haiti today, one-half free to govern itself and its finances, one-half run by British management. On both sides of the island there had been fine docks, brick buildings. On the side managed by the natives, these fell into ruin, while the natives that owned them went over to work for the British that knew how to provide work and wages. Nothing is more beautiful than human liberty, as Tom Reed said, but you must know how to use it.

CHINA'S WAR takes you back to the mythical days of the Amazons. Harvey Duncan and Carl Lemcke, American business men on their way from Shanghai's foreign settlement to Woosung fort, were stopped by a regiment of short, thick-set Chinese women, wearing earrings and carrying old muskets with bayonets. They were holding trenches that protected their village. The two Americans turned back, the ladies spoke no English. Later the same Americans tried agian, and found Japanese occupying those trenches, taken with machine gun fire. Twenty-four of the Chinese fighting women had been buried. Their willingness to be killed may mean trouble that Japan did not anticipate in her Chinese venture.

Naval, Land and Aerial Forces Level Fire on on Woosung.

CHINESE HANGING ON

U. S., French, British Ministers Asked To Aid Peace Move.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12—Japanese warships and artillery swung into action on the Woosung front soon after this morning's brief truce expired.

They bombarded the village and the forts where the Chinese were still hanging on stubbornly, and machine gun sections on both sides of the river picked away at each other with a sharp crossfire.

The Japanese said their men had killed considerable numbers of the force on the opposite bank. Each side accused the other of having started the fighting again.

Japanese airplanes swung through the smoke and mist above Woosung, dropping an occasional bomb, but they used none of the 500-pounders, which have been brought up for the big offensive still to come.

The Japanese naval commander off Woosung asked the captain of the British cruiser Berwick to change his berth, and the implied warning was taken as in indication that the Japanese intended to bring another heavy bombardment there.

Charge Truce Broken

Japanese consular officials charged that Chinese soldiers had broken the "mercy" truce, authorized from 8 a. m. to noon to permit removal of civilians and wounded soldiers from ruined Chapei. They asserted that during the four-hour period Chinese soldiers and snipers fired at least five times on Japanese troops, standing by in accordance with the truce agreement.

Japanese military officials denied there was any intent to extend the truce, although they declined to say whether hostilities were likely to begin soon.

Comparative quiet continued over Chapei through the afternoon,

U. S. Minister in Peace Move

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12—A new movement for peace, through the mediation of Nelson T. Johnson, United States minister to China, and the British and French ministers, was begun today by Chinese merchants in Shanghai.

The merchants sought an extension of the "mercy" truce promulgated today for evacuation of noncombatants and wounded from Chapei. It is understood they planned to ask the foreign ministers to mediate, with the hope of opening lasting peace negotiations between the governments at Nanking and Tokyo. The three foreign ministers arrived today from Nanking.

BROOKS FLETCHER IN CONGRESSIONAL RACE

Former Congressman Seeks Democratic Nomination; Is Third in Field.

Brooks Fletcher will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination as congressman from the Eighth district in the May 10 primaries, it was announced in Columbus today, according to the Associated Press.

News of Fletcher's candidacy came from Democratic state headquarters at Columbus, where it was said W. W. Durbin of Kenton reported Fletcher had sent the announcement to him.

Mr. Fletcher, for two terms a congressman from this district and who was defeated four years ago by Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr., is the third Democrat to announce his candidacy for the nomination. Carl W. Smith of Kenton and John A. Key of 521 east Church street, who served two terms in congress, previously announced their candidacies.

Charles F. Schaber, Bucyrus attorney, is considered a very likely fourth Democratic candidate. No Republican candidate for the office has yet announced.

FAIR PREMIUM PLAN CHANGED

Awards Limited to Only Entries from Marion County; Money Offered Reduced.

Premiums offered at the 1932 Marion county fair will be confined to Marion county exhibitors, the fair board decided yesterday in the second meeting held to revise the entry fees and premiums.

Exhibitors outside the county are invited to exhibit their stock and produce at the fair, but can not share in the premium money, it was announced.

Revisions made by the board yesterday and in a previous meeting held for the same purpose call for a conservative localized fair this year, C. G. Ritzler, secretary, pointed out. Every effort will be made to make the fair self supporting and to make it a countywide exposition.

Reductions in premiums were made in every department of the fair, and entry fees generally were increased. Third prizes offered in some departments in previous years were dropped, the most marked reductions being made in departments which have been most expensive in the past.

The race program was left untouched, although considerable change from the program of previous years will be made. The races will be made nearer self supporting. Whether to hold the races in the afternoon, nights, or both in the afternoons and nights was discussed but no decision was reached.

ACCUSED MAN WILL TESTIFY

Murder Trial at Mt. Gilead Nears End; Defense Testimony Given.

CASE RESTED BY STATE

Place Where Stabbing Took Place Principal Battle Ground for Attorneys.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Feb. 12—William Hart, 35-year-old Mt. Vernon grocer charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of George Addison, Morrow county farmer, will take the stand in his own defense.

The trial which opened Tuesday in common pleas courtroom is rapidly nearing its end. The case is expected to go to the jury Saturday after the defense introduces medical testimony regarding the condition of Addison's health preceding the stabbing during a drinking party at his home.

Highlights of the testimony introduced yesterday and this morning brought out the contention of Hart's counsel that Addison was stabbed outside the house. The state has maintained that the stabbing took place in the house. One witness for the defense said Addison was drunk.

Wife On Stand

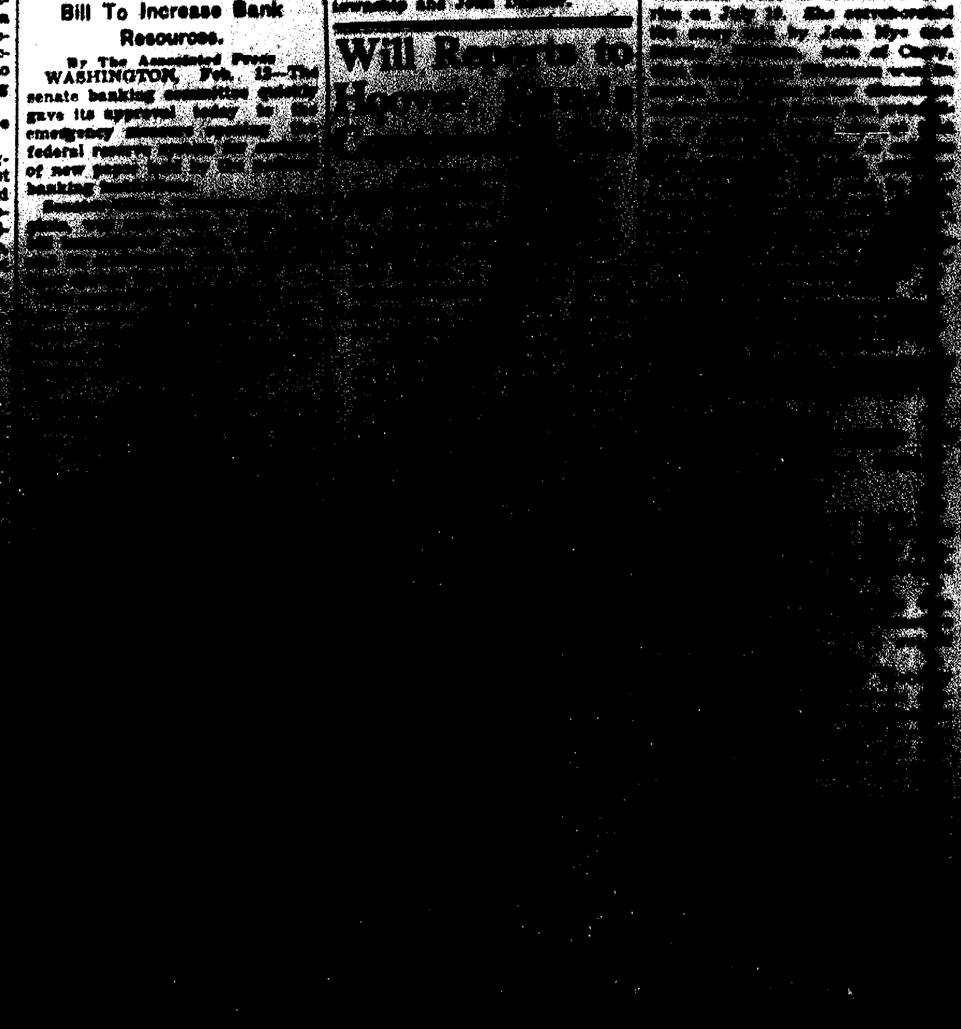
Mrs. Hart, wife of the man on trial, said her husband did not stab Addison. She said that when a fight started in the front yard, her husband ran out and knocked two men down. He took a knife from one of the men struggling in the yard, she testified.

Other witnesses testified that there was blood on Addison's face and neck before he entered the house. Mrs. Don Kemmer, however, said that Addison was holding his face when he entered the house and that she did not see any blood. Mrs. Rosa Thompson and James Kessner said that Addison told them that he did not know who stabbed him.

Doctors Testify

Two doctors, Ernest Scott and V. A. Dodd, University hospital pathologists, completed the state's case yesterday afternoon. They testified that Addison's death was caused by blood poisoning.

Other defense witnesses were Luke Hart, Louis Bishop, Mrs. Evelyn Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Don Kemmer, Paul Thompson, and Charles Hart Jr., of Mt. Vernon, Fred Merriot of Canterburg, Russell Boyd of South Bloomfield township and John Dunn.



20-YEAR TERM IN PEN FACED BY CAREY MAN

Jurors Deliberate 40 Minutes To Convict in Morral Holdup.

MERCY IS RECOMMENDED

Action Saves Robber from Mandatory Life Sentence in Prison.

A sentence of 20 years to life imprisonment today hangs over Robert J. Wickham, 36, of Carey, who was found guilty yesterday afternoon by a common pleas court jury of robbing the Morral bank of $2,260 last July 10.

The jury went out at 3:50 p. m., deliberated 40 minutes, and returned with a verdict of guilty, tempered with a recommendation for mercy.

Wickham's attorney, J. H. Eymon, indicated this morning that a motion for new trial will be filed within the three-day period allowed for this procedure. It is expected that the court will delay sentencing Wickham until this motion has been filed and acted on.

The jury was instructed by Judge George B. Scofield to return one of three verdicts, guilty, guilty with a recommendation for mercy, or not guilty. Had the jury found Wickham guilty without recommending mercy, it would have been mandatory for the court to sentence him to life imprisonment. The mercy recommendation gives the court the right to impose any sentence ranging from 20 years to life.

Wickham was among the nine witnesses called by his attorney, J. H. Eymon, in an effort to establish the alibi that he was near Carey in search of berries at the time of the holdup, and to prove that his character was generally regarded as "good."

State Rests

The prosecution rested immediately after court had been opened for the afternoon session of the trial. William Lindsey, Mrs. Mattie Bishop, John Wiggerman, Mrs. A. J. King, Stanley Shaffer and Mrs. Emma Hammond were called as defense witnesses to testify regarding Wickham's character.

Mrs. Wickham, who with two of her three children attended both sessions of the trial, testified that Wickham was a good husband, denied that Alva Wilcox had come to her home to divide the loot taken in the bank holdup, and declared that her husband had borrowed money from his brother to meet their living expenses. She testified that Wilcox obtained the revolver Wickham allegedly used in the holdup from her in June, while Police Captain Ira Shrock's testimony was that Wilcox obtained the gun from her in September. The gun became a subject of controversy when the defense attempted to prove that Wilcox obtained the gun, hid it, and directed authorities to it in an effort to "frame" Wickham as robber of the bank.

Mrs. Wickham also was one of three witnesses testifying that Wickham went in search of berries on July 10. She corroborated the story told by John Rye and [illegible] both of Carey.

BEATTY FIGHTS UNKNOWN DISEASE

Chicago medical specialists were enlisted in a fight to save Clyde Beatty, famous animal trainer, from an animal infection never before known to attack a human being. The infection, denysz virus, developed after Beatty had been bitten by his favorite lion, Nero, at the Winter quarters of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus in Peru, Ind. As the malady is not uncommon among animals of the zoo, medical science has a serum for animals only. Physicians hesitate to administer it to Beatty. Never having had opportunity to study the infection in the human body, medical science is virtually powerless against it.

Beatty was attacked by three lions at the conclusion of a rehearsal and was prostrate when Nero sank his teeth into his right leg. Thrusting his fist into the beast's mouth, Beatty whipped him until he let go, and fled from the arena. Photo above shows Beatty with his pet lion, Nero.

Beatty, a native of Chillicothe, O., appeared in Marion two summers ago with the Hagenbeck-Wallace show and thrilled thousands with one of the most daring and spectacular animal acts ever given here.

YOUTH HAS BRIEF GANGSTER CAREER

Two-Hour "Crime Wave" in Detroit Ends in Prison.

By United Press

DETROIT—Stanley Krok, who entertained dreams of gang leadership, while he went about the prosaic tasks of a baker's helper, is in a prison cell, thinking it over.

Krok, 17, saw a gangster picture and it all looked so easy in the movies. It seemed child's play to use a "gat" and stage holdups and flaunt the police.

With money won in a crap game, Krok purchased a gun. One night he went into a speakeasy. He had a few drinks and purchased a pint of whisky. The liquor gave him the needed "nerve."

Picking his place indiscriminately, Krok held up, in rapid succession, two filling stations and a restaurant. He stole two automobiles, capturing a chauffeur with one of them.

But Krok's two-hour one-man crime wave was nearing an end. With $400 in his pocket, Krok stopped for gasoline at a station near Ann Arbor. Instead of paying for the gas, he decided to "take" the place. But Eugene Tompkins had other ideas. When Krok talked "tough," he proceeded to knock down the youth, take his gun from him and beat him up.

Krok's sentence is 20 to 40 years.

GRANGE COMMITTEES ARE NAMED FOR 1932

Juvenile Farm Group Meets at Claridon School Building.

Committees for 1932 and an assistant matron, Mrs. Clyde Smith, were appointed last night at the meeting of the United juvenile grange in the Claridon school building. A donation was made for a needy family.

Lincoln and Valentine day exercises featured the program. The roll call was answered by quotations from Lincoln, followed by an essay on Lincoln by Webb Clark. Miss Jean Lawrence played a piano solo. Millard Moreland gave a talk on the life of Lincoln, and Harry Ruth recited "The Gettysburg Address." Walter Augenstein told of Lincoln's assassination.

Miss Maxine Retterer gave a recitation. A song by Misses Dorothy George, Clara Frayer, Eleanor Grant, and Leona Mae Smith, accompanied by Miss Jean Lawrence, preceded Valentine exercises by Martha and Marjorie Augenstein. Jokes and riddles and a Valentine exchange concluded the program. The next program in two weeks will be in honor of the Washington bicentennial.

Committees named were, sick, Dorothy Seas, chairman, Clifford Dulliford and Ruth Frayer; relief committee, Harry Ruth, chairman, Warren Bastian and Walter Augenstein, and membership, Dorothy Price, chairman, Jean Lawrence, Alfreda George and Inez Kraner.

PLANS WELFARE WORK

RICHWOOD, Feb. 12—The Auxiliary of the American Legion met Monday night. Plans were made for some welfare work and to send toys to the Xenia home.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Feb. 13.

A DAY of very contradictory prospects is foreseen by the dominant influence of the stars. While it is an excellent period for launching new enterprises, especially in connection with large corporations, mergers, secret bodies, or through stratagem, diplomacy or intrigue, yet it seems like a two-edged sword cleaving the safety of these enterprises through craft, deception, fraud and misrepresentation operating in both directions. Be careful in signing papers, guard the tongue and avoid litigation.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of much activity in connection with new projects, in cooperation with corporations, mergers or secret bodies, or by means of secret agreements, intrigue or diplomacy. But all is subject to fraud, misrepresentation, litigation, unless papers be signed with much precaution, speech be well guarded and slander or misconstruction be avoided. A child born on this day should be clever and adaptable, but may be disposed to gain its ends by crafty schemes or subtlety.

To Honor Presidents.

RICHWOOD, Feb. 12 — The Daughters of Veterans will meet tonight when a program will be given in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Lincoln and McKinley. Mrs. Isabelle White, patriotic instructor, will be in charge. Readings will be given by Mrs. Mary Irwin and Mrs. Grace Temple. Music by the quartet composed of Mrs. Hattie Roberts, Mrs. Florence Davis, Mrs. Rosella Babbs and Miss Mary Zebold.

Mrs. Taylor won't use any Soap but it's Fresh!

CELLOPHANE-WRAPPED CAMAY

● "Janet, I just can't believe you're old enough to be that baby's mother—I declare, your skin is just as soft and fresh-looking as his! How do you do it?"

"I just use Camay Soap, Mrs. Taylor. It's wrapped in cellophane, you know, and it's just wonderful what that does for a beauty soap. Camay is so fresh and delicate!"

"It certainly must be, if it keeps you looking that way. Why, nobody would dream you were a day over 18!"

● "But, Mrs. Taylor, I thought you were supposed to let soap get stale before you used it."

"That's for laundry soap, Laura. But in a beauty soap, it's freshness you want. You have no idea how much difference it can make till you've tried a soap that's really fresh on your skin. Mine is ever so much nicer since I've been using Camay."

"Well, I'll certainly have to try it, Mrs. Taylor. Thanks ever so much for telling me about Camay."

● "Never saw soap lather in hard water the way this new soap of yours does, mother."

"It's Camay, son. It's fresh soap. And don't you like the nice clean fragrance it has?"

Staleness prevents the free, soft lather ... portant in a beauty soap. Camay ... the day it was made, because it ...

It's a big verdict, but how can money compensate a young woman for such a loss as this plaintiff suffered?

The Memel State

There is a faint echo of snarling and snapping from a place in Europe known as Memel, a territory of about 950 square miles containing principally the town of Memel and about 145,000 Germans and Lithuanians, pretty evenly divided between town and country, respectively.

Memel and the region thereabout always have been lively. Troops of Poles, Lithuanians, Germans and even Swedes have marched in and out. During the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, special opportunities for excitement were offered, due to rivalry between the Lithuanians and Poles to see who could burn the town the more frequently. Finally, however, it drifted into German control and remained there until an attempt was made to change things around in the Treaty of Versailles.

Because Memel separates Germany from Lithuania along the Baltic sea, German influence in the city itself is guarded jealously by German patriots and resented fiercely by Lithuanian patriots. So in 1923 the Lithuanians, who had been promised the territory as a gift, stirred up an eternal hornet's nest by seizing it prematurely. The League of Nations, in an attempt to restore peace, worked out a scheme whose failure is the cause for the present snapping and snarling.

Germans and Lithuanians were to have equal voice in the government, according to the scheme. The Germans did better than their share, however, with the result that they got control, a state of affairs which the Lithuanians have set about correcting by force. As if the League of Nations didn't have enough to worry about, it now has a mess in Memel. All of which proves, of course, what every one knew but forget when the Treaty of Versailles was being drawn; namely, that national groups can't be moved around like chess men without making endless troubles for the peacekeepers.

Lincoln's Heritage.

During this year of the George Washington bicentennial observance the 123d birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, who preserved the union that Washington made possible, came quietly with no more than customary advance notices. Yet, in the present circumstances of the nation to which both men dedicated their lives, it is only fitting that Lincoln's heritage be weighed with special care by grateful millions who are especially fortunate in having it at hand.

It will be centuries, perhaps, before the myriad uncontrolled factors that determine human character will conspire to produce another Abraham Lincoln—the right man in the right place at the right time. It is not mere formality that causes a great man to be remembered by generations living after his time. It is, rather, a fortunate human ability to recognize real greatness and to hold it up as an example for those of lesser stature to copy.

Abraham Lincoln's heritage to Americans is one of unusual moral fiber. He moved slowly along rugged paths of extreme hardship, stumbling often, but never betraying the trust of his stewardship. Abraham Lincoln, physically and mentally, was almost grotesque in rough simplicity. Yet, in that same simplicity lay his strength as a great popular leader. He compelled love or hate directly; he was a man whom the people could understand without resorting to imagination, as they have to do so frequently with small men unwisely elevated to high places.

"We—the people" was the phrase that is the symbol of his conception of public service. With more men like him to constitute an official aristocracy in each generation representative democracy would flourish in such vigorous directness as to dispel all doubt of its unique advantages as a form of government offering the greatest number of people the greatest good. Still, it would be most unwise to go seeking another Lincoln who could be recognized by the pattern of the Emancipator's character. Conditions change with the times and the Lincoln of today or tomorrow may pass unrecognized by his contemporaries. Abraham Lincoln, reviled by his enemies and pleading for the confidence of his friends, died a martyr to short-sighted intolerance.

Today, Lincoln's birthday is just one of the many days in a year that will test the nation's wisdom and direction in many ways. The nature and number of the difficulties that present themselves to the people contribute to confusion. Public leaders, private leaders and individuals might well make liberal use of Abraham Lincoln's heritage of moral fiber to assist them in going directly to the heart of all issues, abiding strictly by proved rules of conduct and, above all, keeping faith in themselves and their fellow-men.

While we here in Ohio were experiencing temperatures ranging from sixty-five to seventy, Wednesday and Thursday, the delegates to the Geneva disarmament conference were shivering in the chilly air. Did the weather people ever get their goods so badly mixed up as during the present year?

The appeal of Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, that unpledged delegates be sent to the party's national convention, has been characterized in Washington as "an impertinence." Poor Jouett seems to have picked one of the times when the Democratic mule refuses either to be driven or lead.

Getting Back to Normal.

There's no wisdom in trying to keep up a killing pace forever, so the slowing-up of the Washington legislative mill following production of the act creating the Reconstruction Finance corporation scarcely has been noted. It was the expected thing—the wise thing.

When speed is the rule, in congress or in a factory, there is a falling-off in quality. If the house and the senate had nothing but good legislation to consider, they might conceivably clean up their work by the first of March and adjourn. But in among a few good bills are a great many poor ones. The latter can be killed and shelved only by patient, laborious effort, which takes time.

Furthermore, it is of the utmost importance to work out good legislation in perfect detail. A vast deal of committee work is necessary to accomplish that purpose of good legislative planning. Following committee deliberations, when the bill is reported for discussion, it must be reviewed most meticulously in debate to insure against mistakes that might be revealed after passage. Congress did fast work on the Reconstruction Finance corporation bill, but it would have planned at long ends with chance had it tried to keep up the pace set in enactment of that measure.

Americans alternately trust and fear the influence of congress. Before it convened, they dreaded what it might do. Now, in February, they are partially assured that their previous fears were groundless by reason of the fact that the congressional spirit is a conservative one, emphasizing the merits of caution and careful deliberation. If that spirit proves sufficient to carry the house without local responsibility there should be abundant thankfulness for at least one stroke of good fortune in this trying period.

It would be indeed shocking were one so deeply interested in the welfare of the taxpayers, as the Hon. Gifford holds out that he is, to make those of the Keystone state share in his pre-convention campaign expenses.

"WHO'S AFRAID?"

Editorial Opinion.

AURORA.

Colonel Knox's account of what was done in Aurora, Illinois, to restore confidence in the banks suggests the "rosy-fingered" dawn of a better day. It is not as if the crowing of a chanticleer had brought it. It has come as a result of economic conditions. Not long ago Aurora, the fair city of the Fox River valley, an hour out of Chicago, found itself in a very nervous state. It was no doubt the darkest hour supposed to precede dawn. No one knew when "runs" might start, even though the banks were solvent. Then rose Aurora, goddess of the morn, from her "saffron-colored" bed of Tithonus.

It would be better to say that the people of Aurora rose to find the signs of a new day in their sky. The stores, except those essential to the daily welfare of the people, were closed for five days, during which period the banks were officially examined and found to be solvent. In the interval a house-to-house canvass was carried on to allay anxiety and bring money out of hiding. The result was most gratifying to Aurorans and has a message of hope to other communities. The deposits in the banks on the day following the five-day period were augmented by $1,000,000, with promise of further increase. It is said that the early settlers of this city of nearly 50,000 people chose its name as an expression of their confidence in the future. Its inhabitants today have shown themselves worthy successors of the pioneers of faith in Meredith Nicholson's "Valley of the New Democracy."

The city of Aurora has in other ways manifested a fine and daring public spirit. Only recently it flung a "monolithic bridge of remarkable beauty and unique design" across the Fox river, first traversed by the canoes of the French explorers and priests after the Indians. This city, "where famous art collections have overflowed into hotel, and club lobbies, and public buildings," has taken a first step, according to "The American City," to show that bridges need not be as drab as gas tanks or telephone poles along the public thoroughfares.

Just now special praise is due those within her gates for her fresh demonstration of confidence in the future—for the promise of a better day which "Aurora's peering hand," to use Keats's phrase, has brought.—New York Times.

THE SHAMBLES OF SHANGHAI.

Shanghai, the play place of the Orient, becomes charnel house and shambles. Commenting upon the fighting that isn't officially war in Asia, Major General James E. Fechet, retired chief of the United States army air corps and now editor of "Aero-Digest," writes:

"International law forbids the making of war against innocent non-combatants, the bombing of great civilian population centers! Tell that to the wailing women of Shanghai, wringing their hands above the bomb-torn bodies of their babies!

"What happened to Shanghai can, with variations, happen to the cities of our own land, if we continue to sap the strength of our air defenses."

General Fechet says that beyond question the United States now ranks not higher than fifth and possibly only sixth among the world air powers. Until recently France led, with the British empire second, Italy third and the United States fourth, but Russia certainly and Japan probably has passed us "on the road to national security in the skies."

General Fechet's comment is that "unless congress wants to bring us eventually to the woeful state of China, it behooves that body to wipe out the deficiency immediately. Next year or the year after that, or when the depression is over, may be too late."

That is the opinion of one who has been a professional soldier. He may overestimate the hazards of our position, but his warning should be given thoughtful attention.—Toledo Blade.

Chalazion, Eye-Lid Tumor.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Chalazion is a swelling of the eyelid frequently confused with a sty. It is caused by an obstruction to the opening of the passageway from one of the glands in the eyelid. This results in a swelling of the lid at that point. This little tumor is likely to become infected; then we are likely to have a chronic inflammation.

This condition differs from a sty. It lacks the active signs of inflammation. There is no redness, and no pain. No pus formation is visible. Because of this the condition is often overlooked for a considerable time. Its presence is only realized as it grows in size.

This tumor gradually enlarges. After a period of months, it may reach the size of a pea or be even larger. It causes a definite disfigurement of the lid.

The word "chalazion" comes from the Greek word meaning "hailstone." This swelling closely resembles a hailstone. It is round, firm and when removed in its entirety has a glistening appearance.

Occasionally the chalazion may break down and from it a thick, sticky fluid escapes. If this happens the condition does not disappear as it does when a sty breaks and discharges.

Chalazion may be caused by rubbing the eyes, exposure to wind and dirt and lack of hygiene of the eyes. The germs are aided in their efforts to find lodgment.

The only cure for this condition is a simple operation. There is no medicine, salve or ointment that will cause the swelling to disappear. As the tumor grows it definitely interferes in the movements of the lid. If neglected, it may break down, become infected, and is then more serious.

When people are told that an operation is necessary, they usually become alarmed. In this case there is no need for alarm. The operation is simple and is done in the doctor's office. It is done under local anaesthesia, thus removing all pain. No ill effects follow this operation.

In the operation a small incision is made in the skin of the lid and the tumor is removed. Healing is rapid and there is rarely any scar or sign of the operation.

Chalazion should not be neglected. Remember that in addition to its interference with the motion of the eyelid, it may break down and become infected.

New Council Members.

BY HENRY WOOD

Geneva, Feb. 12—(U.P.)—Mexico is scheduled for election as non-permanent member of the council, at the September assembly, according to League of Nations circles.

The three non-permanent members, whose term will expire this year, are Peru, Poland and Yugoslavia.

Poland is one of the two states, along with Spain, that has been granted the right of re-election, which amounts virtually to a semi-permanent seat. It is therefore considered certain that she will be reelected.

Her presence on the council is deemed necessary owing to the constant number of questions arising between her and Germany as well as the possibility of complications with Russia.

The Latin-American seat, now held by Peru, would ordinarily go to one of the South American countries. The only two of the latter that have not yet had their turn on the council are Bolivia and Paraguay.

The difficulty of the assembly in choosing between these two is that the election of one or the other would create the impression that the League is taking sides in their frontier dispute.

Under the circumstances, and as a special tribute to Mexico for having joined the League as well as the importance of her role amongst the Latin-American nations, a marked movement is already under way for her election.

The seat now occupied by Yugoslavia is the one that has been tacitly assigned to the Little Entente to be occupied turn about and would ordinarily be given this time to Czechoslovakia.

However, a strong reaction has developed in the assembly to the present tacit system of allowing certain groups of states to have a seat to be occupied turn by turn, such as the British dominion, the Scandinavian states, the Little Entente, the Far East and even Latin-America which has three seats.

Portugal, especially, in a memorandum to the League has pointed out that as a result of this system smaller states that do not happen to belong to one of these recognized groups have no chance whatever of having their turn as member of the council.

Old Ohio Political History.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

Sixty-four years ago last month, General Rutherford B. Hayes was inaugurated for his first term as governor. He had but recently retired from the army with a fine record, but in spite of this his opponent, Judge G. Thurman, was defeated by only 3000 votes. All the candidates on the Democratic ticket were defeated. At the next election, the late General I. R. Sherwood, then a Republican, was elected secretary of state.

To the senate of the legislature sitting in 1868 General J. Warren Keifer came as a senator—his first step in politics—elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Russell. Four other senators died during that term, and one, Homer C. Jones, was unseated on contest.

The Democrats controlled both branches of the legislature, and it was inevitable that Judge Thurman with the fine showing he had made in the campaign, should be elected by the legislature to the United States senate to succeed Ben Wade, whose term was expiring. On January 15, the two branches met and the reading of their journals disclosed that Judge Thurman had a majority in each branch. The total vote was seventy-four for Judge Thurman to sixty-seven for Senator Wade.

That legislature, the fifty-eighth, for some reason adjourned on May 18, 1868, to November 25, the same year.

A caper of composing room print shops in other days was to show a cub reporter "typo lice." Before forms were adjusted columns were soaked with a spongeful of water. The novice was told to bend and peer closely into the type for vermin. A quick shove at the end of the column and inky squirts sprayed, with malicious merriment, into an innocent's face. A copy chief who made me the victim for this hoax was the target for morning hymns of hate for years afterward. I hoped he would come to no good end. Years, like dividends, passed. Yesterday I saw him. He graced the executive desk of an important enterprise. He showed me about his elaborately-modernistic quarters and stopping before a mirrored door said: "We'll peek in here!" I stepped in, but remembering the type lice, expected another gag. You know, come out all covered with flour or something! Washington, Feb. 12—If Joseph Clark Grew goes to Tokyo as American ambassador—and President Hoover is said to have determined upon his appointment—the Far East gets the man hailed by many of his colleagues as "America's best diplomat."

"Joe" Grew, tall and taciturn, has made a business of diplomacy. He is the only American ambassador who has worked up from the consular civil service. Diplomacy to him is a lifetime profession, no pastime.

Grew started out as a minor clerk at the consulate general in Cairo and within two years had won a transfer to the diplomatic service and assigned to the embassy in Mexico City. From there he went to St. Petersburg and then to Berlin.

It was in Berlin that he really won his diplomatic spurs. He was there during the difficult days of the start of the war and on until the United States severed connections with Germany in 1917.

Grew was the ambassador's right hand man—the "inside man" at the embassy. He gathered, codified and analyzed German conditions.

When diplomatic relations were broken with Germany, he was ordered to Vienna where he was counselor and charge d'affaires at the Hapsburg court until the breach occurred later in the year.

He came back home during the war, and served as adviser to the state department.

Colonel House, Wilson's great friend, took Grew to Europe with him and he was at the pre-armistice negotiations with House, playing a prominent role.

His first major post was that of minister to Denmark. With the change of administrations, Grew held his rank. Harding sent him to Switzerland as minister, and Coolidge raised him to the rank of ambassador to Turkey.

Deliberate in reaching a decision, Grew knows about every move in the diplomatic game. He has intimate knowledge of the old world diplomacy.

He speaks eight languages—French, German, Italian Spanish, Russian, Czech, Turkish and English.

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

You Can End Your Pile Misery Quick No Cutting—No Salves

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Henney & Cooper invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles no matter how stubborn the case?—Adv.

Jurors Deliberate 40 Minutes To Convict in Morral Holdup.

ham hunted berries from 9 a. m. to 12.

Tells Same Story

Walters underwent a vigorous cross examination but did not change his story.

Wickham himself corroborated the testimony of witnesses regarding the berry picking. He told of being out of work for months, doing odd jobs to supprt his family, and of finally going to Roanoke, Va., where he said he borrowed money from his brother to pay back rent. During cross examination, Prosecutor R. M. Wilhelm asked Wickham why he paid $160 cash for an automobile when his family was supposed to have been nearly destitute, and asked how he happened to be in possession of an automatic pistol when he was arrested at Roanoke. Wickham said he thought the car would help him pick up odd jobs.

In his argument, Prosecutor Wilhelm reviewed the testimony of J. H. Bardon, cashier of the Morral bank, who pointed out Wickham as the leader of the two robbers, and the statements of Alva Wilcox, who was brought here from the Mansfield reformatory yesterday morning to testify that he and Wickham held up the bank. The prosecutor also briefly reviewed other statements made by witnesses, winding up his argument with a plea that the jurors disregard sympathy and decide the case on the weight of the evidence.

Attorney Eymon reminded the jurors of the testimony of Wickham's character witnesses, and argued in behalf of the alibi that Wickham spent the day of the holdup in and near Carey.

however, although heavy fighting was in progress between the massed armies at Woosung, the fortress and city where the Chinese have withstood terrific onslaughts for more than a week.

Thousands Removed

More than 3,000 marooned victims of a terrible two-week battle were brought out of Chapel during the four-hour truce, many of them wounded soldiers.

Father Jacquinot, French priest who arranged the truce and led the rescue party into Chapel, said the hundreds of civilians who were brought out undoubtedly escaped death.

But it was not easy for Father Jacquinot and his "mercy" corps, bearing Red Cross flags, to persuade some of the Chinese families to retire out of reach of bombs and machine guns. They hesitated long about leaving their homes, and some of them refused all persuasion.

Huge Bombs Ready

At Woosung, the Japanese apparently had decided to increase the power of their hitherto fruitless attack. They had 500-pound bombs ready to drop, although none of these giants were used during the earlier part of the battle. Warships and artillery, however, bombarded the village and the forts, while machine gunners of the two forces facing each other, across Woosung creek, raked the bank with gusts of fire.

Each side accused the other of having precipitated the battle anew.

TOO MANY FRILLS

Chicago Professor Scores Modern System of Public School Education.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—Henry C. Morrison, professor of education at the University of Chicago, says that thrills, fads and frills should be taken out of the public schools.

The schools, he told teachers and clubwomen last night, "has been converted into an expensive clubroom. Pseudo-science and half-digested science have been introduced into the teaching systems and the general drift of quack educators has been to allow the children to do exactly and study exactly what they please."

The system of schools in this country, he declared, is governed by 150,000 different school boards.

"Do you wonder," he asked, "that we have a depression?"

Since the meeting began nearly two weeks ago, 18 additions have been made to the church. Harry Box, evangelist soloist, sang "The Holy City." As he sang, Rev. M. L. Buckley, former pastor of the church, showed stereopticon views of the Holy City.

Tonight Rev. Mr. Dodd will preach on the subject, "An Earnest Question." Mr. Box's solo tonight will be "The Rosary," by Nevin, sung with the sacred words.

St. Bernard Monks Isolated—During the heavy snow storms of the winter the most isolated community in Europe were the 12 monks of the Grand St. Bernard, who for many days were entirely cut off from the outer world by terrific blizzards. Perched on the summit of the St. Bernard pass, 8,000 feet above the Rhone valley, the famous hospice was swept by storms from all quarters, and the building was almost buried beneath 30 feet of snow. If, at the risk of their lives, the monks wished to leave their snowy prison, they were obliged to climb out of the top-floor bedroom windows. For the moment the famous dogs were unable to fulfill their humane mission of searching for lost wayfarers, as they would sink beneath the surface of the soft snow. All attempts to communicate with the hospice by telephone were unavailing, the lines having been swept away by avalanches.

Five workers seeking shelter from the rain in a tool shed at the new concrete bridge on the Lincoln highway near Upper Sandusky were exposed when the roof was blown off.

One C., D. & M. pole was blown down about five miles south of here, 14 between Prospect and Delaware and as close as could be estimated, about 25 between Delaware and Columbus. Trolley wires were not snapped when the pole south of here was blown down but the company telephone wires were broken.

Repairs sufficient to permit operation were rushed yesterday afternoon and last night. The work was being completed today.

FOUR MEN LOSE LIVES

Fishermen Drown When Boat Capsizes at Ashtabula Harbor.

By The Associated Press

With four deaths and property damage amounting to many thousands of dollars in its wake, freakish weather again prevailed in Ohio today. In contrast to recent spring-like temperatures, cold rains or snow were forecast.

Loss of lives and property occurred late yesterday when a gale of more than 40 miles an hour, accompanied by heavy rain, swept over much of the state. Whipping Lake Erie, the wind caused a fishing boat to swamp off Ashtabula Harbor, drowning its three occupants, John Kivimaki, 43, his son, Elmer, 21, and Enoch Arklander, 55.

Andrew N. Hershberger, a farmer residing near Millersburg, was crushed to death when a frame barn was demolished by the gale. He had driven his team of horses into the structure for shelter.

Two Are Rescued

Two other fishermen were rescued at Cleveland, when their boat foundered near the breakwater.

Several school children were cut by flying glass when wind broke a window in the Riverside school at Newark.

Elsewhere in the state, scores of buildings were damaged, trees uprooted, telephone poles broken and traffic disrupted.

The gale fanned flames which destroyed the country home of C. D. Lauer of Cincinnati, with a loss of $65,000, demolished an airplane hangar and did other damage at Warren, and blew a grain elevator onto railroad tracks near Urbana.

It wrecked a greenhouse owned by Harry J. Sousley at Ada, blew over the front walls of the partly completed $180,000 centralized school at Alpha near Xenia, strewed telephone poles across highways and unroofed a garage of the Puritan Laundry Co., at Philadelphia.

Wall Demolished

A brick wall, 12 feet high and 30 feet long was blown out of the garage and shipping room of the Lattin market at Toledo.

Farm property suffered heavy damage in central Ohio. Numerous houses were unroofed and trees uprooted in Fayette, Pickaway, Licking and Franklin counties. Approximately 50 houses lost their roofs in Cincinnati, and lives were endangered there when the wind moved parked and driverless automobiles down inclined streets.

Rapidly falling temperatures accompanied the storm in most localities. At Canton, the rainfall was of cloud-burst proportions.

MEMBERS OF BIBLE CLASS AT REVIVAL

Twenty members of the Woman's Bible class attended revival services at Wesley M. E. church last night. Rev. W. Martell George, pastor, spoke on the subject, "Seeking the Lord." Tonight the Sunday school will sit in a body. His sermon will be on the topic, "Soul Preparation."

He said in part last night:

"Jesus came into the world to seek and save that which is lost. The anxious soul will not go very far seeking the Lord until he meets the anxious Savior. The man who gets along in the world is the man who seeks, and if we are ever to get any place religiously, we will have to seek the Lord. When people ask, 'What must I do to be saved,' they aren't very far from the Kingdom."

MT. GILEAD PASTOR SPEAKS AT MEETING

Rev. W. R. Ellis of the pleasantville Church of Christ at Mt. Gilead spoke before members of the Young Men's Bible class last night at Central Christian church. The class meeting followed the revival services.

Harry Box of Lexington, Ky., soloist during the church revival services, attended the meeting and sang several numbers. Rev. Mr. Ellis spoke on the subject, "The Plus Life."

A short business session preceded the program. A recreation hour and refreshments closed the meeting.

Two-Ton Scales Records Weight of Single Atom

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Completion of a two-ton scales which weighs single atoms at the Bartol foundation, Swarthmore, Pa., was announced today by the American institute of physics.

An atom weighs about one sextillionth of an ounce. Yet this invisible bit of matter swings the pointer of the new scientific instrument about half an inch—as much as flopping a pound or more of meat upon a butcher's scales.

The pointer is a stream of electrified atoms, called ions, shot out of a vacum tube into a magnetic field between two immense magnets, whose size account for the great weight of the scales. It works like the spray of a fountain. The atoms raise into the magnetic field, curve over to one side and fall straight down. They are caught on a photographic plate

POPE URGES PRAYER FOR AID OF WORLD

Message of Pontiff Broadcast on 10th Anniversary of Coronation.

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12—Pope Pius, celebrating the tenth anniversary of his coronation, appealed to the world to join him in prayer for help from God "at this time of suffering among all nations."

It was his message to the world, broadcast through the Vatican radio station as he stood in St. Peter's cathedral surrounded by his cardinals and tens of thousands who had crowded in to witness the ceremony.

The pontiff was carried in solemn procession to the basilica on a portable throne borne by 16 Vatican attendants in red. As he entered the cathedral six silver trumpets were sounded by Swiss guards. Thousands cheered "Viva il Papa!" and priests cried in latin, "Ad moltos annos!" ("May you live many years longer").

Some excitement was created while the Pope was proceeding up the aisle of the church when an elderly man tossed an envelope toward him, shouting: "I ask a grace" Guards hurried the man away.

Pius wore a white cassock, and in vivid contrast to it a red mantle, embroidered in gold and studded with jewels. On his head was the jeweled tiara, or triple crown. He raised his right hand occasionally to bless the shouting people

BAKE A VALENTINE!

MAKE IT a delight WITH CALUMET'S DOUBLE-ACTION!

A VALENTINE CAKE with frosty coconut and tiny red hearts! There's a chance to be different—try it! And be wise—follow the recipe exactly. Use Calumet Baking Powder—and Calumet's Double-Action will make it the cake of your heart's desire. A specially smooth—extra delicate—light-as-a-wisp creation!

Will any other baking powder do?—Not if you want that even Calumet texture, that wonderful Calumet tenderness. For Calumet has a way all its own of making your cakes and quick breads superlatively good—it acts twice. Calumet's first action begins in the mixing bowl. It starts the leavening properly. Then in the oven, the second action begins. Steadily, evenly, it continues the leavening. Up! . . . up! . . . it keeps raising the batter and holds it high and light, until your cake is beautifully baked.

And see what you save!—The simple, tested recipe given here calls for the Calumet proportion—only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour. That's the usual Calumet proportion and should be followed for best results. A splendid economy for you!

Yes, Calumet is the real baking powder bargain! Calumet is a product of General Foods Corporation.

VALENTINE CAKE
(3 egg whites)

3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
3 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
½ cup milk
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with liquid, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring; fold in egg whites. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 minutes. Put layers together and cover top and sides of cake with white frosting. Decorate top with border of tiny red cinnamon candy hearts and a heart of candies in center. All measurements are level.

RESEARCH REVEALS ALL-BRAN RICH IN HEALTH-ELEMENTS

Helps Correct Constipation with "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Has Iron

Recent scientific research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation. It has "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements promote regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Equally tasty as a cereal with milk or cream, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

1932 Tax on Real Estate Totals $1,318,327 Here

Delinquencies at Present Amount to $362,129; Amount Unpaid in Last Year Is $123,652; Abstract Shows Valuations Lower in City and County.

County Treasurer R. G. Smallwood is charged with the collection of $1,686,302.31 in taxes on real estate in Marion county during 1932 in the abstract of the tax duplicate just completed in the office of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas.

Of this total, $1,318,327.36 is levied for the share real estate bears in the operating costs of the county, schools, city, villages, townships and state. The remaining $367,974-95 represents special assessments against real estate for improvements such as roads, streets, ditches, sewers or sidewalks.

Total Delinquencies

The treasurer also is charged with the collection of delinquent taxes or uncollected taxes on real estate and personal property levied in 1931 and personal property tax levied in previous years amounting to $362,129.33 of which $253,210.31 is delinquent taxes against real estate. These delinquencies swell the treasurer's total charge to $2,048,-431.64.

A comparison of figures on the abstract just completed, which is known as the 1931 abstract, and that of a year ago discloses that delinquencies on real and personal property increased by $123,652.72 during the last year.

The total of $1,318,327.36 levied against real estate for governmental operating costs is divided into five amounts, which in turn are subdivided among the various political subdivisions. The five general divisions show that, of the total, $677,681.57 was levied for all school purposes, $375,146.01 for city and village operating costs, $204,-404.12 for the operation of the county, $48,280.35 for the townships, and $12,815.31 for the state. Within these general divisions is $362,918.19 for Marion city operating purposes, and $13,900.36 for the Marion city schools.

Two Divisions

Among the special assessments levied is $115,497.39 for county pikes, $38,527.58 for ditches and $21,270.21 for township improvements.

The abstract is divided into two principal parts, one listing the amount of realty tax to be collected in 1932, and the other part listing the valuations on real estate in the county. Abstracts for 1931 and 1930 are not comparable, for the 1930 abstract lists personal property which was exempted this year by the legislature. The 1930 abstract charged the treasurer with the collection of $2,362,860.97, of which part was levied on personal property now exempted. Because of the personal property feature, this figure is not property comparable with the total charge of $2,048,-431.64 this year.

In the section of the abstract listing property valuations, it is shown that Marion county real estate is valued, for taxation purposes, at $50,162,690 this year, as compared with a valuation of $56,796,940 last year. The reappraisement of all real estate last year accounts for the reduction. Real property in the city and villages this year is valued at $32,863,520 and property outside the city and villages at $17,299,170. On the 1930 abstract city and village real estate is appraised at $36,710,780 and rural realty is valued at $20,086,160.

Beauty Hints Help as Winter Colds Keep Milady In the House

—It is Difficult to Look Your Best When You Have a Head Cold, But Here Are Ways to Do It.

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

THE season of colds is full upon us and I haven't reminded you of our sick bed suggestions for beauty during one of those sieges of red eyes and nose!

We all realize how a head cold can make even the most attractive women look much the worse for wear. Still, if one will remember the following suggestions and make use of them, one's appearance will not suffer nearly so much from the cold. Then, too, because of the soothing and healing effect of the treatments suggested, less irritation mentally and physically will be experienced.

At the first sign of a head cold apply a liberal amount of camphor ice to the lips and in the nostrils, not forgetting the span of skin between the lips and nose.

Camphor ice will prove very soothing and if used at once frequently prevents the intense chapping and soreness of lips and nose that head colds often induce.

Use the camphor ice liberally, for it will prove a true friend in these circumstances, not only preventing undue soreness but keeping the nose from turning red. And, that's an inducement!

Besides the use of camphor ice, sweet almond oil or a nourishing cream should be massaged over the skin daily to prevent undue soreness but keeping the nose from turning red. And, that's an inducement!

Besides the use of camphor ice, sweet almond oil or a nourishing cream should be massaged over the skin daily to prevent undue dryness. Even through one is not confined to bed, a cold is accompanied by a little temperature at least, and fever dries the skin unmercifully.

An Olive Oil Massage

When using the oil of sweet almonds or nourishing cream, give special attention to the cuticle surrounding the finger and toe nails. The liberal use of oil on the cuticle and nails when the body is feverish prevents hangnails and frequently keeps the nails from splitting and breaking off.

If you are confined to your bed with the cold, suggest that the one caring for you follow your alcohol rub with an olive oil or oil of sweet almond massage. This will keep the body far more comfortable and will help to offset the drying effect of fever and alcohol.

Keep the soles of the feet well oiled when a cold is raging through your system and you'll be amazed at the lack of effect the fever will have on your health and comfort generally.

Should the cold come upon you just when you were in need of a shampoo, spray a bit of toilet water through your hair and massage it onto the scalp. This is only an emergency treatment, for the constant use of toilet water with its high alcohol content would dry out the hair if used constantly. But to put the oil on the hair during an illness won't prove unduly drying and harmful and it will improve the appearance of your hair as well as make your head more comfortable.

BOY CRAZY

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Wholesale Insult

"WHO wants their old food?" demanded Hope. "I wouldn't touch it if I was dying of thirst! The birds can have it—and the worms——"

Whereupon with one energetic and somewhat muscular gesture, Hope picked up the tray of tempting steaming food on dainty Wedgwood dishes, and flung the whole thing into a clattering, smashing pile out of her window!

Which greatly relieved her nerves—until she suddenly realized that it left her without a drop of cream or a crumb of food for the doleful mewing Sassy.

And until—some two hours later—she realized how piteously hungry she really was!

Late into the moonlit night, Hope paced up and down her room, her imagination working overtime. Packing her bags, and dressing so that she would be ready for travel. For surely Dickey would come! What could be delaying him? Had he really hurt Papa Ross—and what was going to happen? She musn't ask questions that couldn't be answered. The same question beating over and over in her mind....

She must have faith. Dickey would come, and there must be some good reason why he hadn't arrived before this. Whatever the hour, she would go with him—if she had to leap out her window and into his arms to make it! Why on earth were her bedroom windows directly over the blubbering brook and the sunken garden? One couldn't very well tie a sheet and jump the rest of the way down there—only to land soused and wet to the skin! No indeed! She'd run away if she had to, but that would be silly now, because ten to one she'd pass Dickey on the way, and besides, Papa would be watching the garage, and how could she get any distance without a car before being caught?

Better, anyhow, to wait until Dickey and his father arrived, and then leave, with perfect dignity, haughty and proud . . . They had said they'd stick together no matter what, hadn't they? Oh, but surely Dickey would come . . . And Hickey would help them like he said . . . And some day Dad would be sorry . . . And see things in the right light . . .

Why were the walls of the house built so soundly? Why such silence—such ghostly, gruesome silence everywhere, with only the faint tinkle of the phone in Papa's study ringing ever few centuries? . . . What was the matter with everybody? Had they gone crazy?

Was that the sound of a car on the driveway? Oh, why couldn't she see the front of the house? Who was coming—or who was leaving, and for where?

Dawn crept into the rose and apple-green bedroom, and found Hope Fairfield Ross sitting by her open window, dressed in a blue duveline suit, her hat fallen to the floor, her yellow head bent against the window ledge in the sleep of exhaustion. Asleep — but still dressed and ready for the slightest sign, the barest sound of love to call for her and carry her away to happiness....

Long before Hope had succumbed to exhaustion, three men faced each other in the enormous billiard-room below the house.

If only the bride could have seen or heard Hickey, with Dobson at his feet, and Dickey by his side, pale and disheveled. John Howard Ross, before his huge cobblestone fireplace, one arm stiff in his sleeve, and the other raised with a vehement gesture that punctured the snarl of his words.

"And the behavior of the boy," he repeated with a nasal sting that robbed his voice of any human quality, "has only proven my statements. Drunk at the Country Club an hour before he ran off with my child! Drunk, and in a fist fight that has put one boy in the hands of a surgeon today with a broken ear-drum! He should be sued! I ought to have him arrested! I wouldn't soil my family name by entering into a court brawl with him! My family will suffer enough as it is with the publicity of this whole disgraceful affair!"

"I shan't leave until I see Hope, just the same!" growled Dickey with white and glowering obstinacy.

"She doesn't want to see you! She doesn't want ever to see you!" Papa Ross fired the words back into the boy's face.

"I'll have to hear that from her own lips!" insisted Dickey for the fortieth time in the last hour.

"Drunk you were!" shouted Papa Ross, not to be outdone in a little matter of repetition. "Drunk, I say, when you dared to run off with a girl who isn't old enough to know her own mind! Ignore her family, and never so much as notify us of her safety or her whereabouts. Her mother is seriously ill as a result from a heart attack early this morning that has put her in a very grave condition. And as for your behavior when at last you got around to bringing my daughter home——"

With a speechless, almost flabby twitching of his dry lips, Papa Ross pointed to his own injured left arm.

"I'm sorry—dreadfully sorry and ashamed—but you didn't give me a chance!" cried Dickey hotly. "I've got some rights. You wouldn't even——"

"You've got no rights!" raged his father-in-law with a snap of his jaw. "You're 19 and she's 17. You're minors! Infants. You have no rights, either one of you, and I'll never give you a chance!"

"And I'll never believe Hope doesn't want to see me, until——"

But old man Hickey turned and put his hand on his son's shoulder.

"That will do, boy," he said tersely. Then, with a weary straightening of his huge square shoulders under his loose-fitting tweed coat, the producer turned somber eyes on the banker.

"I have, sir," Hickey spoke with slow deliberation and a careful dignity to mask the unmanageable tightness of his throat, "come here with nothing but good-will—nothing but apology, and with a desire to meet you half-way—all the way—in order to keep these two children from ruining their lives. I have——"

"Half-way!" snorted Papa Ross fiercely. "Half-way! With nothing but good-will and apologies, eh? With no thought to the inheritance perhaps that is Hope's——"

With sudden clenched fists, Hickey squared off, in a flash of uncontrollable anger.

"Confound you, sir!" he roared, his throat easing for the first time in that hour with the relief of a good, round, wholesome fury.

At his feet Dobson growled a warning, showing his pointed white teeth, as he planted himself immovably before Hickey's patent-leather shoes.

"No! No thought of money!" repeated Papa Ross, bringing his good right fist down on the edge of the billiard table until several scattered little white and red balls clicked dolefully. "You, with your four flops last season! You, with your son a parasite on his college! Free tuition, because his brains are in his foot and he is able to kick a goal for his team! Don't think I don't know you. I've looked you up. I know everything you've done."

Like a streak Dickey was across the eight feet between them, while his father cried out a protest and bent to hold Dobson by the collar. But Dickey wasn't sane enough at the moment to listen to any protest. Dickey was blind with anger—with wholesale insult.

But not a second time was Papa Ross to be caught by the boy's unthinking rage. Before he fairly realized what he was doing, Papa Ross had grasped a billiard cue, lifted it high in the air, his right arm free in the swing of vengeful anger, descending with a blow that crashed mightily downward, across Dickey's face and shoulder, felling the boy with the stroke.

For one dry-eyed moment, Papa Ross gazed down at his feet, realizing the extent of his own fury—understanding vaguely in the back of his mind, why the boy himself had twice been driven to physical attack.

Then——

"Get out!" roared Hickey. "Get out and away before I loose the dog on you."

John Howard Ross stared over at the straining Great Dane tearing at Hickey's grasp.

"Get out of the room, I say!" shouted Hickey with something close to murder in his own eyes as he lanced the man opposite him with one glance.

Perhaps it was a sob that escaped Papa Ross' lips as he dropped the billiard cue, and covered his face with his hands. Half seeing, he made his way out into the hall, leaning against the door and listening to the sounds that emerged from the room....

Stronger than He Was at Twenty

FIFTY-FIVE years old, and still going strong!

Do you want the secret of such vitality? It isn't what you eat, or any tonic you take. It's something anyone can do—something you can start today and see results in a week! All you do is give your vital organs the right stimulant.

A famous doctor discovered the way to stimulate a sluggish system to new energy. It brings fresh vigor to every organ. Being a physician's prescription, it's quite harmless. Tell your druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Get the benefit of its fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and that pure pepsin. Get that lazy liver to work, loose stagnant bowels into action. Get rid of waste matter that is slow poison so long as it is permitted to remain in the system.

The new energy men and women feel before one bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin has been used up is proof of how much the system needs this help.

Get a bottle of this delicious syrup and let it end that constant worry about the condition of the bowels. Spare the children those bilious days that make them miserable. Save your household from the use of cathartics which lead to chronic constipation. And guard against auto-intoxication as you grow older.

Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is such a well known preparation you can get it wherever drugs are sold and it isn't expensive.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

As Precaution Against Possible Infection or Contamination, Hugh Grantland Orders Madge to Burn Her Gown!

LILLIAN kept her promise to Hugh Grantland that she would take care of me, almost too well to suit me. When Katie had brought a complete fresh outfit of clothing for me from my room, Lillian assisted me in taking off the things I had on and then washed my face, neck, arms and hands in the antiseptic solution Hugh had suggested. So vigorously did she scour me that I protested.

"Ouch! You're taking the skin off," I said.

Lillian grinned impishly.

"I haven't had a chance at you for a long, long time," she said, "so keep in your stall."

"I wonder why Hugh insisted upon all this nonsense anyway," I could not keep the petulance out of my voice. "I don't want to burn this gown and these shoes."

"Well! You'll have to." Lillian's tone held finality. "Lucky that's an old frock you wore tonight. It would have to go anyway if it had come from the shop yesterday."

"But why," I persisted.

Lillian dried the back of my neck deftly with a soft towel, then nodded.

"You'll do, now," she said. "Get into your clothes and doll up. If you use your cold cream liberally your skin won't be irritated, even if I did use up a lot of elbow grease in applying the disinfectant."

A Logical Question

I dressed and moved towards the chair where Katie had placed my [illegible].

"You haven't [illegible] them yet," I [illegible].

"Because I [illegible] answer," [illegible] smile, and [illegible] them, [illegible].

from the one that hurled himself against you, but whether it's just a general precaution on his part or whether he has any special reason for his directions to you I don't know. For that matter, we haven't any idea whether our yellow friends are the home-grown variety or whether they've just come in without the blessing of the immigration inspectors. They don't look like students to me," she finished.

"No," I said absently, putting the last touches to my hair. "They don't to me, either, and I don't suppose we shall learn anything more about them."

"We'll know all there is to know, once this emergency is over," she said with decision. "Of course, I'm not going to gum up the works now by asking any questions, but afterwards they'll come across, or laughing, bright-eyed little Lil will know the reason why. Come on, we'll go out this back door to the incinerator."

She was wrapping my discarded clothing and shoes in newspapers as she spoke. Then she washed her hands thoroughly in an antiseptic solution and dried them.

"I'll cold cream them when I get upstairs," she said. "Where's the kerosene can?"

Finishing the Task

I indicated the small oil can that Katie always keeps in the laundry, and with the parcel of clothing under one arm, she stooped for the can. But I was too quick for her, and we moved softly out of the door to the "back yard," an enclosed space where are located the incinerator and the ash and garbage cans, those necessary though sordid details of a [illegible] household. We had moved but a few steps from the porch, however, before a figure advanced toward us, and Jim's voice said:

"Was there anything you wanted, Miss Graham?"

There was more than the question in his tone. Finality and decision were in his voice, and Lillian laughed softly.

"Orders are that we shall not get more than five feet from the back door, eh, Jim?" she asked.

"That's what Mr. Spencer said before he went up to lie down," Jim replied, and I caught at Lillian's arm in sudden fear. In my anxiety over possible danger for Dicky in the expedition, and my excitement over Hugh's arrival, I actually had not noticed my father's absence from the kitchen either before the departure of Harry and Dicky, or after their return with Hugh Grantland, Lee Chow and the two trussed Chinamen.

"Is he ill?" I asked tremulously.

"No, no," Lillian said before Jim could answer. "He's simply conserving his strength, as a commanding officer should. He's probably in the kitchen now. Here, Jim!"—she put the paper wrapped package of clothing into his hands. "Don't unwrap that. Put it in the incinerator, pour kerosene over it—give him the can, Madge, please—and be sure that it is burned to ashes. Wash your hands in an antiseptic solution afterward. Katie will fix you up one. Do it right away, will you?"

"Yes," Jim answered—"If you and Mrs. Graham will go back into the house."

What's the Answer?

His tone was worried, and I saw that he held himself personally responsible for our safety. I spoke quickly, reassuringly.

"We will go right back, Jim, and you won't see us outside again."

"Please lock that door as you go in," was Jim's only response, and when we had obeyed his request, Lillian and I looked at each other.

"What next?" I asked petulantly. "Are we to be interned here all night?"

A knock at the door leading to the kitchen punctuated my question, and as Lillian opened it she spoke over her shoulder.

"Probably here's your answer."

Harding Invades Ashland Tonight

PRESIDENTS READY FOR TOUGH BATTLE WITH HILLTOP QUINT

Bitter Conflict Certain as Both Teams Fight To Stay in Running.

Having successfully topped four of the six North Central Ohio league hurdles which have been encountered to date this season, the Harding High school basketeers will trek to Ashland tonight where they will make a supreme effort to clear the seventh obstruction in the path to the league championship. The seventh obstacle, Ashland, promises to be one of the most difficult to clear, but Harding is cocked and primed to make a valiant attempt to accomplish the feat.

Both Ashland and Marion will be battling to reach the same objective, namely, undisputed possession of second place in the standings or a deadlock for the top post. Mansfield is now on the highest rung but a defeat by Shelby tonight would put the Tygers into a deadlock with the winner of the Harding-Ashland fracas. If Shelby wins the Whippets will move into a tie for third with the loser of the Ashland-Harding fray.

The Presidents will go into the battle with Ashland slightly under full strength, as Jack Ling, giant center, is not expected to play on account of a cracked ankle. However, with Bill Stark filling in at the pivot post, the Red and Black cohorts are expected to put up a mighty struggle against the Hilltoppers. Stark has been playing practically half of every game in recent weeks and rates as only slightly less capable than Ling.

All other members of the Harding squad are in shape for a gruelling conflict although Billie Hero's ailing leg is not in the best of condition. The injury is not such that it is likely to slow him down to any great extent.

The first game tonight will see the Harding Reserves battling to retain a perfect record for the season. The game will commence at 7:15 p. m. prompt. The varsity clash will get under way at 8:15.

Francis Bacon will be one of the officials in both games.

While Harding is playing at Ashland, Mansfield will be entertaining Shelby and Bucyrus will be host to its heated rival, Galion.

BAD WEATHER STOPS LAKE PLACID EVENTS

Four-Man Bob Sled Races Not Likely To Be Run Before Sunday.

By The Associated Press

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 12—The bad weather jinx hovered over Lake Placid and the third winter Olympic games again today.

Rain yesterday brought about two postponements of the four-man bob sled races, and right now it looks as if they won't take place until Sunday.

Postponement had the effect of jamming the schedule for the end of the meet. Four major championships are yet to be determined, the four-man bod sled, the ski jump, the pairs figure skating, and hockey.

It was predicted that the heavily-packed snow of the intervales ski jump would be proof against persistent rain, and that the jumpers will go through their stunts this afternoon as scheduled. Yesterday 62 skiers went down the slushy sixty-meter slide and the Olympic hill below and one of them, Hans Vinjarengen of Norway, made a hill record of 204 feet on his second try.

The only other event on today's program is the pairs figure skating event in the arena.

In this, as in the other figure skating events, European skaters were favored.

THREE DEADLOCKED FOR BICYCLE LEAD

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—Three teams were tied for first place today in the six-day international bicycle race and with two more only a lap behind and two others pressing in third place, sensational jamming was expected before long.

Any one of the seven teams has a chance to win. Tied for first place were Alfred Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere; Charles Ritter of Newark and Jimmy Walthour of New York, and Jean Pijnenberg of Holland and Adolphe Van Nevele of Belgium.

Coming Back!

JACK DEMPSEY

Possibility that the former Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey, may try to regain his heavyweight championship was increased last night when the former title holder flattened K. O. Christner, the Akron rubber man in three rounds. Dempsey sent the veteran Christner to the mat with a well-directed volley of lefts and rights after having given him a decisive beating in the earlier rounds.

Is Dempsey coming back? Well you figure that out.

FOUR TEAMS ENTER Y CAGE TOURNAMENT AT SHOVEL SATURDAY

Painesville, Van Wert, Cleveland, Mt. Vernon To Compete Here.

Unless unlooked for entries are received before Saturday noon, four teams will battle Saturday afternoon and night at the Steam Shovel gym for the Ohio Y. M. C. A. conference baskeball championship. The tournament will be staged in connection with the state Y. M. C. A. conference which gets under way here tonight. It is possible that teams other than those now entered will get in before the deadline and compete in the tourney although officials have had no word from other clubs which were expected to have entered the play.

The Cleveland South Side Y. M. C. A., the Painesville Y-Indus club, Mt. Vernon Y. M. C. A. and Van Wert Y. M. C. A. are the teams entered at present. The tourney will get under way at 3 p. m. Saturday afternoon. Drawing will be made shortly before time for the first game.

The Shovel Y-Indus club, of Marion, present champions of the state conference, will not defend its title this year. The Marion Y-Indus team copped the crown last season at East Liverpool.

Not much is known of the strength of any of the teams except the Mt. Vernon Y. M. C. A. The Marion Y-Indus team has defeated the Mounts twice this season but despite the fact the Mt. Vernon boys are looked on as a fairly strong combination. The Cleveland South siders are also reported to be bringing a classy team of court workers here in the hopes of taking the trophy back to the northern Ohio city. Van Wert and Painesville are unknown quantities, never having competed with teams from this section of the state.

BUCKEYES HOST TO INDIANA TANKERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—Ohio State university's swimming team will meet Chicago tonight, marking the first time the new natatorium has been used for Western conference competition.

The invaders will be headed by Captain Carlandson and the Buckeye tankers by Walter Gilsdorf of Columbus. Nine events are on the program.

Schoolboy Leads.

By The Associated Press

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 12—A card of 73, two strokes over par, brought Winfield Day, Chicago schoolboy, to the second round of the St. Valentine's tournament here today with a 5 and 4 victory over H. W. Faber of Miami.

SHOVEL Y-INDUS TO MEET BLISS COLLEGE AT SHOVEL TONIGHT

Marion Quint Hopes To Upset Crack Capital City Combination.

The Shovel Y Indus basketball team has a score to settle with the Bliss Business college of Columbus and if things work out as the Marion boys hope, the issue will be settled tonight. The Bliss college tossers will invade the Steam Shovel gym tonight for a game with the crack local amateur quintet.

Last season the Bliss college handed the Marion quint a five-point beating in one of the best ball games played on the local court all season and the Y-Indus hopes to even the count tonight although it appears to be an uphill battle.

Among the outstanding players of the capital city combination will be Eddie Plank, Mike Mileusnich and Bus Woodward.

Plank, who cavorts at center for the Columbus five, is six feet, three inches tall and generally considered the best high school basketball player produced in Columbus in recent years. Mike Mileusnich is another brilliant player. Bus Woodward is a former running mate of Plank's, the two having played together when Central High school was romping rough shod over all Columbus opposition.

The game tonight promises to be one of the toughest this season for Marion. However, the Y-Indus boys are confident they will be able to turn back the invaders in a hard struggle.

The Y-Indus will have all of its men available for tonight's conflict, the first time in several weeks this has been possible. Walter Lockwood will start at the center post, Vic Gillis and Bill Roush will be at the forwards with Bill Keller and Eddie Sawyer at the defensive positions. The only member of the squad who might not be present for the game is Carol Caris, brilliant forward whose services were obtained only a short time ago.

The First Reformed church team will play in a preliminary game at 7:30 p. m. The Y-Indus-Bliss battle will get under way at 8:30.

REFORMED QUINTETS WIN DOUBLE HEADER

Upper Sandusky Loses Pair to Marion Teams on Shovel Court.

The First Reformed intermediate and senior basketball teams scored another double victory last night on the Steam Shovel court, taking both ends of a double header from Upper Sandusky in a pair of inter-city church league contests. The Marion Reformed senior team won 27-17 while the Marion intermediates romped over Upper Sandusky by a 51-6 count.

Neither Marion team had any difficulty in chalking up a victory. The seniors jumped into a 11-0 lead in the first period and coasted through the rest of the game. The intermediate five ran up a 27-0 count before Upper finally located the net for its six points.

In the wrestling bouts, Young Cicero and Johnny Wrenn went to a draw. Red Campbell defeated Jack Frost two of three falls, after losing the first fall.

Dempsey Puts Christner To Sleep in Third

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 12—It took former champion Jack Dempsey just short of three rounds last night to score another knockout in his barnstorming tour across the continent. His victim was the equally-veteran Meyer (K. O.) Christner of Akron.

Dempsey sent Christner to the floor once in the first round and three times in the third, but the Akron rubber man was winner of the second and left the former tiger momentarily tired and old.

Like the Manassa Mauler of old, Dempsey kept boring in, however, and the third round was young when he floored Christner with a right to the jaw. They traded punches and then the rubber man went down again. He staggered up to meet a pair of left hooks to his chin and that finished the fight. Dempsey weighed 195 and Christner 204.

Nearly 10,000 persons gave the former champion a big ovation. He got 50 per cent of the $27,973 gate receipts after a six per cent deduction for the boxing commission.

TEAMS PAIRED FOR RURAL TOURNAMENT

Marion County Church League To Play Post Season Games.

Drawings were made last night for an elimination tournament among the six teams in the Marion county Sunday school basketball league. The tournament will be held on the Marion Y court on Feb. 20, Feb. 27 and March 5, the three Saturdays following the close of the league's regular season on Feb. 13. Two games will be played the first Saturday night, two the second and a final game the third. The March 5 date is tentative and may be shifted.

Two of the six games drew byes in the first round games. Green Camp Baptists will play Prospect in the first game and Morral will clash with Pleasant Trinity Lutheran in the second on Feb. 20. Waldo and Caledonia drew the byes.

On Feb. 27, Caledonia will meet Waldo and the winner of the Prospect-Green Camp game will clash with the winner of the Morral-Pleasant encounter.

On March 5, the winner of the Feb. 27 games will meet in the finals.

This tournament will not decide the championship of the league, it being decided in the regular season which closes Saturday of this week. Waldo is leading the race now with one more game to play.

RURAL CHURCH TITLE AT STAKE SATURDAY

Three Games at Y To Close Regular Season for County Circuit.

A three-act program of games Saturday night will bring to a close the first season of the Marion county Sunday school basketball league. The games will be played at the Marion Y. M. C. A.

Pleasant Trinity Lutheran will take on the Caledonia M. E. five in the lid lifter this week, Morral will tackle the league-leading Waldo team in the middle game while Green Camp Baptists and Prospect will meet in the nightcap encounter.

Waldo Reformed will be battling against Morral to cinch the first flag of the loop. The Reformed five has won all but one of its starts this season and has already cinched nothing less than a tie for the title. A victory Saturday night over Morral will give it undisputed possession of the flag. A Waldo defeat will give Caledonia a chance to step in and claim half of the crown, providing of course, the Methodists are able to turn back the Pleasant Trinity Lutherans. Inasmuch as the Lutherans have yet to win a game this season, Caledonia is favored to hand them another setback.

Green Camp and Prospect will be fighting for nothing in particular when they get together in the final game of the evening. Neither has a chance to share in the leadership but both are anxious to finish the season with a victory, consequently an interesting battle is likely.

PADDY MACK HEADS GRAPPLING CARD AT SHOVEL ON MONDAY

Fred Moran To Provide Opposition for Popular Light-Heavy Battler.

Ever since Paddy Mack, 175-pound toe twisting artist made his initial mat appearance here some weeks ago in a semi-final match local grunt and groan fans have been yelling for him to appear in a two-hour main-go final.

They will get their wish this week as Promoter Cleat Kaufman has obtained Mack's agreement to come here Monday night for a two-hour battle with Fred Moran, the Boston Irishman. The two will head the regular Monday night wrestling card held in the Shovel gym.

Supporting the main bout Monday night in a 45-minute semi-final act will be Tom Temple, Marion's latest contribution to the wrestling world, and Paul Adler, a 175-pounder, who hails from Lima. Temple has been absent from the local ring for several weeks but has been diligently training and will be in tip-top conditions for a hard bout.

Fans who go to the Monday fight will not see one of the rough and tough battles that have been the vogue here for the last several weeks. At least they wont if Paddy Mack has anything to say about it. Mack doesn't go in for the rough and tumble tactics, preferring to stick to a whirlwind style of scientific wrestling. He is certain to provide the fans with a good exhibition of the art of grappling.

Moran, while not quite such a scientific wrestler as Mack, is not particularly fond of the slam bang type of grappling and will provide Mack with plenty of opposition. The battle should be one of the fastest and cleanest witnessed in the local ring in several weeks, excepting of course, the Joe Savoldi-Karl Davis match of a week ago.

A 20-minute preliminary will be arranged but the principals have not been announced as yet.

BUCKS VS. ILLINI

First Division Berth at State Saturday in Big Ten Clash.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—When basketball teams of Ohio State and Illinois tangle here tomorrow night, a first division berth in the Big Ten will be the reward of victory.

The Illini are now in fifth place by virtue of three victories and two defeats with the Buckeyes close behind with three wins in six starts.

Earlier in the season, Ohio downed Illinois by one point margin. Then the Illini staged a startling comeback to defeat Purdue, while last Monday Ohio lost an overtime game to the Boilermakers.

The game will be broadcast over WEAO.

Spartan Five Wins.

The Spartan Athletic club basketball team took a game from the Harding High school vocational quintet last night by a 22-11 score. The game was played on the Harding High gym court.

SPELLBINDERS TO USE RADIO

Campaign Speakers To Keep Air Channels Humming This Year.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON — With what promises to be the hottest political campaign of the decade, radio faces the task of maintaining a neutral political line while on either side by disputants.

Ever since the politicians started using radio as a campaign voice they have made a piece of work as they are getting politics on the air down to be faced.

Neutrality Essential

Never before have the two major political parties of the country been "touchy" on all subjects. Any deviation from neutrality in broadcasting on the part of the broadcasting chains brings certain attack. And attack by either party is equally certain to bring forth subject unpalatable, if not disastrous results. There is no "solid army" with which the radio world could, even if it desired, defend itself. Political lines are being drawn as to make conditions receptible at present and even more so in the future.

Broadcasting companies have carefully laid plans for their work this year and aim to make a neutral forum of radio for the political world. Contracts for time on the air will be carefully supervised to see that no advantage, accrues or otherwise, accrues to either side in the political war. If the silver tongue political leader wants an hour to present his views on a question, broadcasting officials plan to see to it that opposing parties have an opportunity to present the same privilege for presentation of the other side.

Economy Feature Considered

Economy probably will cut down political campaign expenses considerably in 1932. Broadcasting executives except many speakers to take to the air in place of expensive trips from place to place as an economy move.

The next campaign probably will create high interest in Europe as a result of radio. Broadcasting officials have sent a number of programs abroad, but have never used the radio for transoceanic work to the degree in which they expect to employ it during 1932. Foreign listeners will hear the issues of the American campaign fought out more thoroughly than ever before within the next twelve months.

Waves Herald Earthquake—That the recent earthquake in New Zealand was preceded for several days by huge tidal waves in the Pacific ocean, has been reported from Rarotonga, Cook island. The submarine disturbance came in the afternoon of a perfect summer day, when the sky was cloudless and the sea calm and blue. Waves 15 feet high suddenly rose outside the lagoon. Then they rolled forward, breaking over the reef with a terrific thundering noise, and rushed up the harbor, submerging the wharf and swamping the sheds along the wharf-side. As the breakers dashed over the reef the foam and spray reached a height of 80 feet, though there was not a breath of wind and glimpses of the ocean beyond seen through the spray showed that it was perfectly calm. This strange phenomenon continued throughout the night, causing alarm and anxiety.

Aerial Survey of State's Road System Planned

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—Traffic conditions on Ohio's main highways will be determined by an aerial survey.

The survey, said state highway Director O. W. Merrell, was decided upon as a result of successful experiments in planning road routes from the air. Aerial photographs, he said, will be taken to determine if the highways are overcrowded, the comparative value of two, three or four way traffic lanes and the adequacy of road markings.

The experiments were made by Lieutenant Clyde H. Butler of the 112th observation squadron of the Ohio national guard in cooperation with Capt. Frank McKee, state director of aeronautics.

Britain's Wild Cattle — Closing of Chillingham castle, England, by the Earl of Tankerville, has raised the question of what is to become of Britan's only wild cattle which have been roaming the estate. The herd of 44 represents all that is left of the many horned white cattle on the British Isles years ago. The earl will care for the 44.

Deaths from commercial vehicles are decreasing.

HEAP BIG CHIEF AND SQUAW

As part of his training to ready himself for the spring opening of baseball practice, Roger Peckinpaugh, Cleveland Indians' pilot, is shown as he put in some brisk rowwork, with Mrs. Peckinpaugh acting as "power." SCOUT TROOPS TO MOBILIZE

Test of Ability To Assemble Quickly Will Be Made Saturday.

Marion's 12 Boy Scout troops will mobilize Saturday. In order to test their ability to assemble quickly in an emergency, the time sent out to assemble the scouts be made known to the scouts until the call is issued.

The mobilization call will be sent out to assembled the scouts to render a good turn to Marion. The Boy Scouts have undertaken the task of collecting clothes for the needy for the Family Welfare society and will distribute 4,000 handbills and return postal cards for this purpose Saturday. Homes returning cards will be listed for a return call Saturday, Feb. 20.

The Girls Scouts, under the direction of Mrs. Walter A. Dorsey, will assist in the distribution of handbills and cards and also in the collection of clothes.

Scoutmasters will be notified by telephone and special messenger of the mobilization call and will relay the message to their scouts. The number of scouts reporting will be recorded by judges at 10-minute intervals and special recognition will be given those troops that can assemble 50 per cent of the membership within 30 minutes of the call.

The cards returned will be sorted and distributed to the scouts by districts. The following Saturday the scouts, with trucks following, will call at the homes to pick up the donations for the needy.

Civic service work has always been a part of the program of Boy Scouts, local leaders said, but services over the country on behalf of the needy during the last year have been on a scale unequalled in the history of the movement and are rivalled only by the service rendered during the period of the World war.

The local scout office receives calls for some kind of service every week Sam Rosenberg, chairman of the civic service committee of the Harding area, recently reported to the local council that more than 2,600 hours of service were rendered by Marion scouts during 1931.
